DREW SCOTT'S ENGAGEMENT!

THIS PROPERTY BROTHER IS OFF THE MARKET

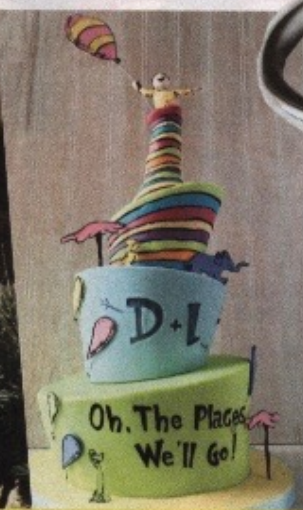

BY MEGAN STEIN

THE PROPERTY

Brothers are getting a sister (in-law!). On Dec. 13, after six years of dating, Property Brothers' Drew Scott, 38, popped the question to Linda Phan, 31, his longtime girlfriend and the creative director of his production company. Scott, who serves as the real estate agent on the hit HGTV show he shares with his twin brother, Jonathan (who fills the role of contractor), orchestrated a proposal as elaborate as any of his televised home renovations, inviting all of the couple's friends and family over for a surprise gathering and playing a recording →

"Jonathan screamed like a girl when I told him!" says Drew Scott (below, left) of his twin's reaction to his engagement news.

Scott surprised Phan with a custom Dr. Seuss cake from Le Dolci bakery in Toronto (above), followed by a party with friends and family, including Scott's twin brother, Jonathan, with girlfriend Jacinta (right).

"I wanted to design a ring that still had style," says Scott. "It's a four-prong swirl solitaire mount in white gold with a 1.2-carat round solitaire."

of himself singing Train's "Marry Me" as he got down on one knee. "The biggest shock was seeing all my old friends and family!" says Phan. "Having everyone there was the icing on the cake." The couple, who have been together since before the Property Brothers became a successful show, first met at a Toronto Fashion Week event in 2010, where Phan was dressed as the "fashion police" and handing out tickets to people. "I saw her and thought, 'Oh, she's attractive!' She also had this great personality." The two exchanged numbers and went on their first date several months later, which was at a karaoke bar where Scott sang "I'm on a Boat." ("I have no shame!" he says.) While Scott and Phan currently share a home in Las Vegas with Jonathan, they've hinted that the next renovation they embark on will be a place of their own. But they're not leaving Jonathan totally in the lurch. "He'll be hands-on with whatever we do," Scott says of the project. "We'll work together to design the home." For now Scott and Phan are just getting into planning mode for the big day, which will happen sometime next year. "The food is top on our list," Phan says, naming poutine and grilled cheese as two must-have items. And because Scott says he and Jonathan "are like a couple of 10-year-old girls" when it comes to organizing nuptials, the groom says he'll stay involved every step of the way. "I might have to do a double best man, though," he says, a nod to older brother J.D. So now that Scott and Phan are getting married, are some Property babies in the cards next? Scott laughs. "There will be little Lindas and Drews running around at some point," he says. "We don't know exactly when, but there will be!"

CAMILA CABELLO WHY SHE LEFT FIFTH HARMONY

On Dec. 18, when vocal group Fifth Harmony stated on social media that "we have been informed via her representatives that Camila [Cabello] has decided to leave," insiders weren't exactly surprised. "Camila never made it a secret she planned to do her own thing," a source tells People. But the way the news leaked angered Cabello, 19, who shot back on Twitter that she was "shocked to read the statement the Fifth Harmony account posted without my knowing... I did not intend to end things this way." A Cabello source insists there were "multiple meetings with the group... [but] they were unproductive." —JEFF NELSON
